ODA and JICA

Since 1954, Japan has been providing financial and technical assistance to developing countries through ODA (Official Development Assistance), aiming to contribute to the peace and development of the international community. JICA is in charge of administering all ODA, such as technical cooperation, ODA loans and grant aid, in an integrated manner. JICA assists and supports developing countries as the executing agency of Japanese ODA, and works in over 150 countries and regions and has some 100 overseas offices.

JICA's Vision

In accordance with its vision of "Leading the world with trust", JICA, with its partners, will take the lead in forging bonds of trust across the world, aspiring for a free, peaceful and prosperous world where people can hope for a better future and explore their diverse potentials.

JICA's Mission

JICA, in accordance with the Development Cooperation Charter, will work on human security and quality growth.

Action 1 Commitment:

Commit ourselves with pride and passion to achieving our mission and vision;

Action 2 Gemba:

Dive into the field ("gemba") and work together with the people;

Action 3 Strategy:

Think and act strategically with broad and long-term perspectives;

Action 4 Co-creation:

Bring together diverse wisdom and resources;

Action 5 Innovation:

Innovate to bring about unprecedented impacts.

Third Country Training Programme (TCTP) JFY 2025 on Comprehensive Emergency and Crisis Management Training Course Integrated Disaster and Mass Casualty Management

The Comprehensive Emergency and Crisis Management Training Course is implemented under the Third Country Training Programme (JFY 2025–2027) through the collaboration of the National Institute for Emergency Medicine (NIEM), the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA), and the Thailand International Cooperation Agency (TICA) under the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Thailand. The course focuses on capacity building in integrated disaster and mass casualty management, disaster health and emergency management systems, leadership development, and workforce enhancement for middle-income countries across ASEAN and BIMSTEC.

Course Title

Comprehensive Emergency and Crisis Management Training Course

Purpose

Emergency Medical Service Systems in the targeted countries are resilient towards health emergencies and crises.

Background

In times of crisis, the right to full access to essential emergency medical services is extremely compulsory to ensure the survival of the population and continuity to the highest attainable standard of health. Conventional (wars and armed conflicts) and unconventional threats (climate change, terrorism, etc.), together with unexpected political, economic, and social determinants of health, with the rapid growth of the global population, have never been more threatening. The occurrences of mass casualty incidents such as disasters and hazards from mass gathering events are considered crises as they disrupt routine and daily practices and procedures of the emergency medical service system. This may affect the provision of timely and effective care. With preparedness for effective responses with other relevant agencies and an effective system of resource allocation, a practised EMS system will help reduce confusion and streamline operations, improving patient outcomes and ensuring that care is delivered in an organised manner.

Stepping forward to another face of health threats to human security, the Third Country Training Program on the “Comprehensive Emergency and Crisis Management Training Program” focuses deeply on the science, skills, and practices towards managing health impacts occurred during mass casualty incidents of any kinds; natural disasters, man-made disasters, social unrest, emergencies in hostile environments by equipping the participants with integrated body of knowledges, practicing of leadership skills and Training of the Trainers programs aiming to give more chances for sustainable learning and sense of ownership where further development can be designed in their own context.

Anticipated Benefits

At the end of the course, the participants are expected to;

- 1) Gain a comprehensive understanding of emergency and crisis management within the health sector, including key concepts, frameworks, and relevant international standards;
- 2) Strengthen their knowledge and skills in disaster health and emergency management systems, with emphasis on integrated responses to mass casualty incidents and large-scale disasters;
- 3) Apply practical tools and strategies for preparedness, response, and recovery to enhance the resilience of emergency medical services (EMS) systems during crises;
- 4) Demonstrate effective decision-making, coordination, and leadership in managing health emergencies under complex, resource-constrained, and rapidly changing environments;
- 5) Improve their capacity to manage EMS workforce and resources efficiently, drawing on lessons learned from simulations and experiential learning activities;
- 6) Develop context-specific action plans to strengthen the resilience, sustainability, and performance of EMS systems in their respective countries.

Venue

The Training Course will be conducted at NIEM's training facilities in Thailand, with study visits to relevant organisations involved in education and training in Disaster Health Management, such as the Bangkok Metropolitan Administration's disaster and crisis management agencies.
