What? ASEAN and the UN are working together to build open inclusive platforms to capture public priorities and perceptions around both the ASEAN Community Vision 2025 and the UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. Both agendas share common principles and values of people-centred development and leaving no one behind, balancing the relationship between human needs and their environment.

When? The partnership was launched by the UNDP chief A. Steiner and 10 ASEAN Foreign Ministers at the sideline of the 72nd Session of the UN General Assembly in New York in September 2017.

How? The ASEAN MY World 2030 is a community-driven survey that builds awareness and ownership of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and supports ASEAN Member States in prioritising goals at the national and regional level, while expanding development cooperation with UN agencies. It provides real-time results to assess SDG progress.

Top Results

So far, 30,000 votes have been collected from all corners of ASEAN. The top countries with highest vote count are Indonesia, the Philippines and Viet Nam. Nearly 65% of the people surveyed in ASEAN countries were aware of the SDGs. A majority of young people and women had their say on SDG priorities.

The top three issues that emerged included: Good Health and Well-Being, Quality Education and No Poverty. The majority of respondents (between 75-85% depending on the SDG) are concerned about progress and identified that there was no improvement (the situation worsened or stayed the same) across all of the 17 SDGs.

Partnerships

Acknowledging that no single group or entity can do it alone, over 150 strategic partnerships were built with the UN, private sector, civil society, youth groups and individual champions across ASEAN countries. Multi-stakeholder participation and inclusion are emphasised as key drivers of success. Different outreach initiatives that are carried out to ensure hard-to-reach and marginalised communities.
